OXBOW, INC. NEWSLETTER

Number 52 March-April 1995

Elections

Election of members to the Board of Trustees took place at the January meeting held at the Cincinnati Zoo. Three board members were re-elected: Morris Mercer, Aaron Perlman, and Ed Thayer. There were also four new board members elected: Anita Buck, John Homer, Connie McNamee, and Mark Westrich.

At the January Board Meeting officers for 1995 were elected — or mostly re-elected. The only changes in the corporations' offices are that Norma L. Flannery will serve as President and Mark Westrich will serve as Treasurer.

John Getzendanner felt that, with his other commitments, he would be unable to devote as much time to Oxbow as the job of President required. Although stepping down as President, he will continue to act as an official spokesman for Oxbow and continue to serve on the board. The board expressed thanks to John for the great job he did as President.

The board also thanked Jim Rettig for his many years of service as Treasurer. Jim, who will continue to serve on the board, will be replaced as Treasurer by new board member Mark Westrich.

Survey

Last fall, Oxbow hired the Hoosier Valley Survey Company to survey land owned by Oxbow, Inc. and Oxbow of Indiana, Inc.

Our surveyor, Mr. Esposito, reported in January that 90% of the "book research" and 90% of the field work were completed. There are a few sticky points that he hopes will be cleared up soon — perhaps by the end of February, flood waters willing.

Land Use

Oxbow accepted bids from people who wanted to farm the McKinney land. Bids were requested for 5 years' use of the land. In addition to income, Oxbow was interested in bids that included farming practices which will preserve the land and benefit wildlife.

Two bids were submitted. At an executive committee meeting held in early in January, Oxbow, Inc. decided to accept the bid of Rick and Susan Pope.

Over 60 Billboards?

The prospect of gambling casino development in Lawrenceburg has resulted in a large number of applications to erect billboards along roads in the Oxbow area. Not only has IDNR's Water Division received applications for some 25 signs, but the Department of Transportation has applications for about 40 more.

Two requests for permits — for a total of 25 signs — have been filed with IDNR and Oxbow has forwarded a petition asking for informal public hearings on each of the proposals. No date has been set for the hearings, but it will be important to have Oxbow members attend. If possible, members will be notified of the hearing dates through Wetland Matters. Otherwise a special mailing will be used.

IDNR Division of Water can only rule on whether the proposed signs will comply with State of Indiana laws protecting floodways. Oxbow is concerned that so many signs, along with the roads which will be needed to construct and maintain them, may change or destroy vegetation in the area and thus both directly and indirectly alter water flow.

Other considerations that we all feel are important such as the effects of billboards on the appearance of the area, their effects on wildlife, etc. cannot be considered by IDNR and should properly be handled by appropriate zoning procedures.

Months ago Oxbow's attorney, Tim Mara, suggested to Lawrenceburg officials that zoning guidelines concerning billboards should be updated. He made a similar suggestion in writing to the Dearborn County Zoning Board, pointing out that the current zoning of the area does nothing to limit billboards. The zoning board didn't acknowledge the receipt of his letter.

Gift to Oxbow

Oxbow, Inc is grateful for a $1500 donation from the Lorika Fund of the Greater Cincinnati Foundation.

Calendar

Meetings

14 March (Tuesday) 7:30 P.M. Oxbow meeting at the Cincinnati Zoo Education Building (Enter through the exit gate on Erkenbrecher Avenue.)

Dr. John Ferner, from the Biology Department of Thomas More College, will bring us this program. John will take us on a slide show to Colorado and describe his search for "The Eastern Fence Lizard, and its Home on the Range".

11 April (Tuesday) 7:30 P.M. Oxbow meeting at the Lawrenceburg Public Library. (From Cincinnati, turn left off U.S. 50 onto Walnut St. Turn right onto High Street. The library is on the right side of High Street.)

The program will be given by Dr. Jacqueline Belwood, a curator, educator, and scientist at the Cincinnati Museum of Natural History. She has done extensive field work on bat ecology in the tropics. Recently, much of her work has been concerned with bat conservation. Join us for a fascinating talk and some amazing slides.

Field Trips

18 March (Saturday) 9:00 A.M. Oxbow field trip
David Styer says mid-March is nearly the perfect time for trip to the Oxbow. Meet him at 50's Root Beer. Call him at (513) 772-4395 if you need more information.

23 April (Sunday) 9:00 A.M. Oxbow field trip
Jay Stenger will lead this trip into the Oxbow area. He'll be looking for birds (bring binoculars if you have them) and other signs of spring. Meet Jay at 50's Root Beer.

Volunteer

22 April (Saturday) 9:00 A.M. Winton Woods Cleanup (See article at right.)

22 April (March for Parks — Earth Cycle '95)
Little Miami, Inc. announces these Earth Day events: walk/jog/cycle/rollerbalde along the Little Miami River. For more information, call 531-5554 (March for Parks) or 351-6400 (Earth Cycle '95).

1995 Winton Woods Cleanup

The Forest Park Environmental Awareness & Recycling Program and the Hamilton County Park District are co-sponsoring the 8th annual Winton Woods Cleanup. This award winning event will take place — rain or shine — on Saturday, April 22nd from 9 AM to noon.

Volunteers of all ages are needed to help remove the accumulated trash and debris that threaten the scenic beauty of Winton Woods and the health of the wildlife that live there. Volunteers will be supplied with bags and a limited number of gloves. After the Cleanup, volunteers are rewarded with a free cookout, prizes and awards. Children must be accompanied by a parent.

Over the last 7 years, the Cleanup has totaled over 2,400 volunteers and collected approximately 45 tons of litter. Last year alone, 525 volunteers picked up over 10 tons of litter in less than 3 hours.

Volunteers interested in participating in this year's Cleanup should contact the Forest Park Environmental Awareness & Recycling Program at (513)-595-LAND (5263) for more information.

All volunteers will meet at Kestrel Point picnic shelter bordering Winton Road at 9 A.M. on Saturday, April 22nd.

Earth Day Exhibit

Photographs from Oxbow's traveling exhibit will be on display as part of the show "One Earth, One People" at the main branch of the Cincinnati Public Library. The main branch is at 8th and Vine.

The show runs from April 6th to April 22.

Gambling

The Gaming Commission held hearings in Evansville on February 1-3. Oxbow's president, Norma L. Flannery, observed the hearings so that Oxbow will be well prepared when similar hearings are held in Dearborn County.

Hearings will be held in Lawrenceburg sometime this spring. The date for the hearings has not been set.

Nevertheless, it is time to start expressing our opinions to the decision makers. One thing Norma observed in Evansville is that organizations which delivered letters in large packages (rather than having letters trickle in) received more attention. We ask you to address your letters to any (or all) of the following, but mail them to Oxbow, Inc. Then Oxbow can deliver the letters all at once.

so we can submit them en masse to the agencies. We need the letters in our hands no later than April 1, 1995.

Writer's Block?

Your letters are very important. Here are some ideas to get you started.

- 1) Oxbow, Inc. is not opposed to a riverboat casino in Lawrenceburg. If there is to be one, it should be in a location that assures development will not bring about irreversible changes in the Oxbow ecosystem.
- 2) It is not possible to predict what effects changes in the hydrology would have on the Oxbow area.
- 3) Alternate development sites should be thoroughly evaluated.
- 4) Mitigation at any level cannot replace what would be lost if the Oxbow is damaged.
- 5) Wetlands and archaeological sites are protected for a reason: they're important and irreplaceable.
- 6) Wetlands serve important hydrological (water purification, aquifer recharge, flood reduction) functions.
- 7) The Oxbow is an educational and recreational resource.

Birdathon '95

What follows is a synopsis of the rules and procedures for Birdathon '95.

Registration: If you are planning to participate as an individual or organizing a team, you should phone Steve Pelikan for a registration packet including registration forms, pledge sheets, a map and the complete set of rules. Call Steve at (513)-681-2574. Leave a message on voice mail if there is no answer. Include your name, address, and phone number. The deadline for returning registration forms is April 19th.

Time and Date: 5 p.m. Friday, May 12 to 5 p.m. Saturday, May 13.

Where: You may start anywhere in the official Birdathon area (see the map). Any mode of transportation except airplane is allowed. All contestants must finish at the tally point with their totals ready to submit by 5 p.m. May 13th. Contestants lose 1 species from their tally for each minute they are late.

The Region: includes any county of Kentucky, Indiana or Ohio, any part of which overlaps a circle of radius 50 miles centered at the Oxbow lake.

Ethics: Participants should maintain good birding ethics and etiquette at all times. The safety of the birds is of prime importance and participants must minimize activity near nests. No tape recordings of birds are allowed, but participants are free to imitate calls to the best of their ability.

Categories of Competition: Most categories are available for both team competition (2 to 6 members) and for individual competition.

1) (Golden Starling Award, teams; Solitary Vireo Award, individual) Most species, entire Birdathon area.

2) Most species in one county of the Birdathon area.

3) (Keep It in the Ground Award) Most species traveling by human/animal/solar or non-fossil fuel power. Fossil fuel to point of departure and back, but no species can be counted at that time.

4) (Fearsome Fledglings Award) Most species, high-school age and younger. Teams may have 1 or 2 older members, but 50% of the team must be minors. Individuals may be accompanied by an older, nonparticipating driver.

5) Most pledges raised per species. One prize for under 18, one for everyone else. Money raised as a team through sponsoring institution doesn't count.

Birdathon Registration

As mentioned above, if you plan to participate in Birdathon '95, either by organizing a team or as an individual, you should request registration materials from Steve Pelikan (513)-681-2574. If you leave a message, be sure to include your mailing address and a phone number. Registration materials will be mailed in the end of March and should be returned by April 19th. This deadline may seem early, but we need the time to process forms and order T-shirts. YOU need the time to collect extra pledges. Even a few extra small pledges, multiplied by 80 or 100 or 150(!) species, means many extra dollars that can be used to protect the Oxbow.

Birdathon is Coming

Birdathon, Oxbow's annual fund raising event, will be held from 5:00 P.M. May 12th to 5:00 P.M. May 13th. Local birders organize into teams, solicit pledges for each species found, and then spend 24 hours counting as many birds as possible. Last year, Birdathon raised nearly $15,000 for Oxbow, Inc. We hope it will do at least as well this year.

Many environmental and natural history organizations from the area sponsor Birdathon teams and split the pledges they raise 50-50 with Oxbow. Last year teams representing the Tri-State Wildlife Center, The Cincinnati Nature Center, The Junior Zoologists from the Cincinnati Zoo and Botanical Garden, the Northern Kentucky Bird Club, Raptor, Inc., and Gilmore Ponds Conservancy participated in Birdathon. One of the delightful things about a successful Birdathon (that is, lots of money) is that such worthy institutions as these benefit when Oxbow does.

Much of the success of Birdathon is due to the generous pledges from members of Oxbow, Inc. in support of the teams that Oxbow fields. This year there will be three Oxbow teams, and you are invited to pledge your support for one or more of these teams.

Oxbow Team #1: "Geriatric Gents" (Karl Maslowski, George Laycock and friends)

Oxbow Team #2: "Fire and Brimstone Birder's Guild" (Joe Bens and Paul Wharton)

Oxbow Team #3: "No-see 'ums" (David Styer, Charlie Saunders and Steve Pelikan)

All you need to do is fill in and mail the pledge form below. After Birdathon is over, you'll receive an account of the adventures of Oxbow's teams, a report on how many species were found, and a memo telling you what your pledge comes to. Thank you in advance for your support.

It began during the last months of 1992. A donation came to Oxbow, Inc.'s memorial from Oak Crest Animal Hospital for Mr. Pooh Ober.

Through the ensuing years, Mr. Pooh and others, such as Dusty Clopton, Heidi Bosse, Balki Stevie, Puck Rothman, Sheeba Mootz, Samantha Angilecchia, Sherman Bergmann, and Rocky Kling have sketched for us a picture of the understanding and caring person behind the donations. Whether a dog, cat, or gerbil each was individual, each a beloved family member, each missed.

The following letter is from Rocky Kling's family:

"Please accept the enclosed donation as a tribute to Dr. Cheryl Winslow-Devine, D.V.M., Oak Crest Animal Hospital. She has taken care of our three dogs for us and no vet could be kinder to animals and their owners."

We concur with that sentiment and wish to join Shadow, Rocky, and Max Kling with an additional tribute to Dr. Winslow-Devine not only for her compassion but also for her continuing commitment to the Oxbow.

Gilmore Ponds Conservancy

Get out your pen and paper again

The Gilmore Ponds Conservancy was formed four years ago in an effort to preserve the Gilmore Ponds Wetlands. Working with Butler County MetroParks the Conservancy has been very effective at acquiring land, running educational programs, and enhancing Gilmore Ponds as an outdoor educational facility.

There's one problem: the Ponds are near the Hamilton-Fairfield Regional Airport and in the past the airport board has strongly opposed allowing water into Gilmore Ponds. Their concern is that water will attract waterfowl (airborne waterfowl may endanger airplanes). The airport authority is currently seeking $12 million in federal funds for airport improvements.

Gilmore Ponds Conservancy understands the concern of the airport board, but would like to let enough water into the Ponds to maintain the wetland plant life there. At the request of Gilmore Ponds Conservancy, the Ohio Department of Natural Resources studied the situation and concluded that water can be re-introduced on the site without increasing the number of waterfowl.

The next few months are critical to keeping Gilmore Ponds as a wetland preserve. The Hamilton-Fairfield Airport has finally agreed to seriously consider a water management plan that would allow introduction of water sufficient to support wetland vegetation without attracting concentrations of migratory waterfowl.

The plan will be formulated by Metroparks of Butler County and Gilmore Ponds Conservancy. It will be presented to the Airport by April 1. The Airport has 30 days to review the plan and make its recommendation to the FAA.

The Gilmore Ponds Conservancy believes this compromise solution to be the best that can be hoped for considering the concerns of all the parties.

Demonstration of a broad base of support from individuals and organizations in the Tri-State area is crucial. Positive expressions of the value of "The Ponds" as a wetland are especially helpful. Letters may be addressed to any or all of the following:

Field Notes

Morris Mercer

November '94 came to a close as the warmest November on record. But I looked forward to the coming winter with hope, recalling scenes of the flooded Oxbow area filled with thousands of waterfowl stopping in on their way north. Last winter's Tundra Swans, Snow Geese, Oldsquaw, flocks of Double-crested Cormorants and Bald Eagle were exciting, and I eagerly anticipated what this winter would bring.

December came and went and it, too, was mild. January 12th was the night I picked for the Oxbow winter walk at Shawnee. About 20 people came out for the walk. The group was fun and we enjoyed an evening stroll but with the temperature above 60, I wouldn't call it a winter hike. I've taken walks on June nights that were cooler.

In search of true winter, Frances and I made our way to Big Sky, Montana. The first morning we walked outside, we knew we'd found it. The snow was about knee-deep. Under our boots it made that wonderful sound that you only hear when it's real cold out. And when I took a deep breath my nose told me it was winter as well — the temperature was 18 below 0. That night we took a walk under a sky full of stars. It was so cold and so beautiful! We were looking forward to our trip into Yellowstone and we saw Moose, Buffalo, Mule Deer, Elk, and Big Horned Sheep before we'd even reached the park... but that's another story.

When we returned home, we found winter waiting for us here in the Tri-State. There was snow cover and a cool breeze had pushed some of the ducks and geese down our way. Since our return I've enjoyed many trips to the Oxbow area. Frequently Jim Simpson and I spend the morning outdoors observing wildlife.

We found the Oxbow sealed in ice; the surrounding fields were under a blanket of snow. The last big bend of the Great Miami River was iced over as well. As we searched for open water we came upon a scene which caused us to wonder if we had gone too far north: we saw our friend Jim Oehlschlaeger — the musher — as he and his sled dogs sped across the snow covered fields on one of their training runs.

We found open water on the Whitewater River at the Suspension Bridge. The ducks, mostly Mallards and Blacks, had found the open water too. Looking upriver we could see a gang of Canada Geese as well. We stopped to watch a Marsh Hawk hunt a field and then headed south as the sun climbed in the sky.

The mouth of the Great Miami was ice covered but above the boat ramp at Shawnee there was mostly open water. There were scenes of unbelievable beauty along the river with the pure white snow and the ice built up in part of the river adding to the brightness of the view. The sun glinted on the green heads of the Mallards, and Ring-necked Duck, Scaup and Redhead were busy diving. When Mr. Redhead pops up in the sunlight it's easy to see where he got his name. We also found Gadwall, American Widgeon, Black Ducks and some ever-so-beautiful Pintail.

The nest on Mt. Nebo used by Red-tailed Hawks last year is now occupied by a Great Horned Owl. We watched two Redtails that were putting on a nice air show over the valley, and they will soon build a new nest, as their old one is taken. We found another Great Horned Owl on a nest along the Miami, not far from where she nested last year.

The woods at Shawnee have been full of deer, some walking along the trails, but most resting in the snow. With the snow cover, the bird feeders have been busy. Cardinals, Towhees, Chickadees, Titmouse, Nuthatch, woodpeckers and Junco are easy to observe.

As fine as our winter trips have been this year, the best is yet to come. Later winter and early spring, as ice melts and the Oxbow floods, will bring many waterfowl into the valley. I hope to meet you there, enjoying the wildlife in the Oxbow.

Annual Report

The landmark Environmental Assessment Survey of the Oxbow's unique biological balance was completed last summer. The $37,000 cost was underwritten by special donations from various gambling companies.

To defend the Oxbow legal expenses increased $16,000. Many proposals for development have been advanced by gambling companies and others, and these were studied and refuted as necessary before various government agencies.

Dues are up 12% from last year, and greater growth is of course welcome. Donations, excepting the special EAS funding discussed above declined from 1993, as did gifts for memorials and Birdathon. Land acquisition gifts were down as we received the last of the special court-ordered pollution funds. Interest income was down due to lower rates earlier in the year. Video, shirt, and book sales raise some funds but are more important because they help publicize Oxbow.

Total expenses have increased due to the EAS study and legal expenses. Newsletter, postage and office supplies expenses were steady.

Assets increased by $80,000 in 1994.

Oxbow, Inc.

A nonprofit organization formed by conservation groups and concerned citizens of Ohio and Indiana for the purpose of preserving and protecting a wetlands area known locally as the Oxbow, Hardintown, or Horseshoe Bottoms, from industrial development and to preserve the existing agricultural floodplain at the confluence of the Great Miami and Ohio rivers for use as a staging area for the seasonal migrations of waterfowl. This is an agricultural area rich in geological, archaeological, and anthropological history.

Help us save this unique wetland. You can make your state a richer place in which to live by helping us preserve this precious resource. Membership in Oxbow, Inc. is encouraged and solicited.
